

For session five of Sprouting Together, the groups joined in exploring the price changes of food. The participants had the opportunity to go grocery shopping in the year of 1950 and then again in 2008. However, the catch was that the groups only had $7.00 for each shopping trip. The idea of the game was for the participants to see how many grocery items they could place in their bag without going over the given amount. This allowed the children to see and realize how the prices have really increased over the years!

Be sure to tune in next week for our last session as we celebrate the completion of the program.

Sprouting Together meets each Monday from 6:00-7:30 p.m. until April 21st.
